MORE DISCUSSION OF RAILROAD BILL

Clay and Carmack Speak in Senate, and Culberson Presents Memorial.

APPEAL OF CATTLE RAISERS

Reform Bill Adopted by Both Houses.

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 29 .- When the Senate met to-day Mr. Cuberson presented and had the clerk read a memorial from the Cattle Raisers Association of Texas, urging the passage of the railroad rate bill as it came from the House The letter was accompanied by a letter from S. H. Cowan, attorney for the associatino, in which he said that the railroads have to the past six years increased rates on cattle shipments to the extent of $18 a car, causing a total outiny of $10,000,000, above the amount that it would have been necessary to pay under the old prices. The petition urged the Smate to resist efforts to seriously amend the bill as mere subterfuses on the part of the opponents of the bill. The following bills were passed:
Amending the law requiring lights
on rates so as to make it apply to rafts so as to make it apply to rafts in tow.

The conference report on the consular reorganization bill was agreed to without discussion.

When the railroad rate bill was taken up, Mr. Clay (Georgia), addressed the Stenate, saying that he did not consider the principal point of controversy a serious one. He had heard charges that both the House and Knox bills were drawn in the interest of the railroads, but the facts, he declared, were convincing that such was not the case. He then traced the history of the House bill, saying that it owed its origin to the Interestate Commerce Commission and had been accepted by the entire membership of the House with praifcal unanimity. The bill might not be perfect, but he was satisfied that it had received only honsel consideration. Fo, too, he was satisfied that the Knox the Tillman and Culberson bills had all been drawn in the interest of the people. He discussed the question of a court review of the orders of the Interest of the commerce Commission, saying that if under the House bill the regularity of the commission's orders only was contested the corrier would be deprived of the right of contesting a rate fixed. Mr. Clay declared that it is was the intention to permit right should be econeeded in the bill. "Why not say so directly in the bill and get over the confrovery?" he said, "I believe that review ought to be permitted, but I believe that the review ought to be confined to the question as to whether the rate fixed is constitutional. The court should not be authorized to go into the whole case."

Court on Both Sides.

Mr. Tillman and Mr. Enten asked why

r. Tillman and Mr. Fulton asked why, he reiew privilege was to be confined the constitutional privilege, any pro-on of the kind was necessary and Clay replied that he would agree wision of the kind was necessary and Mr. Clay replied that he would agree with them of there were nothing in the bill as it stands on the subject of review, but that in view of the text of the a, he thought it should be amended so as to authorize the courts to say whether the rates fixed were confiscatory.

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Clay referred to the differences of opinion between endment lawyers when the income tax measure was before Congress.

Mr. Tillman said it was no wonder lawyers were "befuddled" on that measure, because the Supreme Court had been on both sides. Mr. Clay said that he did not always agree with Mr. Tillman cencerning the courts! that he had fully in their integrity.

"But not always in their infallibility?" asked Mr. Tillman,

"No, not always," said Mr. Clay, "I have not confidence always in my own infallibility."

Summing up his conclusions, Mr. Clay took the position that Congress had the took the position that Congress and the power to fix a standard of rates giving just compensation, that both the carrier and the shipper should have authority to go into the courts to determine the question of just compensation; that the power to issue injunctions should be hedged about with all proper restrictions, and that carriers should be confined to and that carriers should be confined to their own business. Carmack Speaks.

Carmack Speaks.

"When the blk stick keeps company with the pitchfork, surely the halycon days of politics have come," said Mr. Carmack (Tennessee), when he took the floor to speak on the rese bill. He declared that the bill was the legitimate autoone of Democratic demands, and calling attention to the fact that the Republican platform had made no demand for legislation, said the Democratic party had triumped even in its defeat. As for himself, he was content to stand beside the senator from South Carolina as "the guide, counsellor and friend of the administration," He then entered late an argument to show the necessity for ratroad legislation, and said he knew of no better way of providing the necessary restraint upon the roads than through a commission.

The Appropriations Committee was given another defeat when the paragraph relating to the division of the railway mail service was voted out of the bill on motion of Mr. Overstreet (Indiana), who said it properly belonged to the postoffice appropriation bill. At 5 P. M. the House adjourned.

Consideration of the legislative executive and judicial bill was resumed, and when an amendment was offered to the topography of the ground covering the tive and judicial bill was resumed, and when an amendment was offered to the amount appropriated for traveling and ofher expenses of confidential agents of the Department of the Interior, Mr. Tawney (Minnesota), said he was opposed to creading a secret service bureau for the Interior Department.

Mr. Gaines (Tennessee) said it was an outrage on the part of the Appropriations Committee not to give the Secretary of the Interior what he needed to carry on the work of "running down the wilderness of land thieving in the West."

Mr. Mann (Hilpols) said that the Secretary of the Interior had been most active in ferreting out land frauds. He said (replying to an intimation of Mr. Tawney that Secretary Hitcheock had "impulsively" asked for $10,000, when he needed $29,000, "impulsively," with his blood as cold as a fish, he could not impulsively reduce his just needs.
